0.1 Classrooms are adequate and conducive to learning

The classrooms and laboratories are well lighted, ventilated and acoustically conditioned to provide a habitable space for the students and instructors. There are enough chairs, furniture and equipment inside the classrooms and laboratories for the student and instructor's use. The classrooms of the College are well planned for their respective uses and provided with sufficient supplies of chalks and instructional materials. The students also help to maintain the classrooms and laboratories cleanliness such makes the buildings conducive for learning.
